SpiceBox Organics, popular for their healthy, environmentally friendly, organic products sourced from around the world, have expanded to a third location in Kennedy Town. The new branch, totalling 800 square feet over two stories, houses the company's production kitchen. The kitchen is responsible for preparing and distributing their line of ready-to-eat products known as SpiceBox Fresh (gluten-free snacks, salads, wraps, soups and grab-and-go café items) and new items like breakfast foods, brunch boxes, raw nut granola and energy balls, as well as organic frozen products including samosas and flatbreads. Exclusive to this location is also a café counter, allowing patrons to dine in.

'Kennedy Town has been very welcoming, and we are thrilled to be a part of this wonderful community,' says Punam Chopra, founder of SpiceBox Organics. 'This neighbourhood is extremely supportive of local, independently owned businesses, and we've found the perfect home for our third store on Hau Wo Street. We look forward to building new relationships, supporting fellow local businesses in the area and, most importantly, promoting a healthy lifestyle through education.'
