In the bustling city of Hong Kong, where fast-paced lifestyles often take priority, SpiceBox Organics stands as a beacon of sustainable living and clean eating. As a well-known business in the region, SpiceBox Organics has garnered a reputation for its commitment to providing high-quality, and preservative and chemical-free ingredients, through its marketplace, both brick-and-mortar shops and e-commerce platform, vegetarian cafés and catering services.

Known as Hong Kong's one-stop-shop for all organic pantry needs and more, the company's mission "the conscious choice" aims to inspire and educate the local community on making better food choices.

A long-term member of FutureGreen, SpiceBox Organics continues to innovate and expand its offerings with revamped catering services. With a focus on providing healthy and tasty food options for all ages and palates, the company now introduces a Kids menu and an Asian-Inspired Menu. I recently sat down with Punam Chopra, Founder of SpiceBox Organics and certified nutrition and health coach, to learn more about the exciting updates to her catering services. These new additions cater to children's parties, playdates and other get-togethers, offering nutritious vegetarian versions for even the pickiest eaters!

SpiceBox Organics' new offerings

The Future Green team was delighted to join the official launch of this new catering offer in early November where we got to meet lots of like-minded people and familiar faces all sharing a common goal to reduce their carbon footprint while tasting

We got to enjoy vegan piggies in a blanket, quiche and onigiri bites as well as Punam's classic crispy tempeh wonton and many more delicious treats.

After some chatting and some fruitful networking, we ended on a high with guilt-free sustainable and organic desserts from Sweet Secret Cakes, SpiceBox Organics' partner.
